

EDITORS' NOTE

The proceedings of the International Conference on Applied Geophysics (Geophysics Chiang Mai 2008) comprise one keynote paper, eighteen selected papers, and six abstracts. These papers and abstracts were presented either in the oral session and in the poster session.

The editors opted to keep the edited papers as close to their original content and style as possible. Changes were only made where necessary for the sake of technical correctness and uniformity of expression and to correct typing, spelling, and grammatical errors. Of course, being human, we accept that other errors could have been made in doing this.

On this occasion, we would like to express our appreciation to the authors who submitted their papers in an excellent format that left the editors a rather simple editing task to perform.

The editors also thank the Department's staff and students for their assistance in preparing the manuscripts and conference.
